HOLDING PATTERN VISUALIZER

This useful tool shows a pilot what entry is appropriate given the as signed holding radial. It is also a very useful teaching aid.

Approved for use during FAA Knowledge Exams!

You are flying a heading of 360 when you are issued this clearance "...hold east of the ABC VORTAC on the zero niner zero radial, right turns..."

This clearance is enough to invoke a rapid heartbeat in the most experienced pilots. Although holding patterns may be used on any instrument flight, holding clearances are issued infrequently enough for pilots to get a little rusty on the procedures. Visualizing a holding pattern from a current position is one of the more challenging aspects of instrument flight.

A perfect learning tool for experienced instrument pilots, students, and convenient instructional aid for flight instructors. Made from durable plastic in the USA..... P/N 13-06940
